

Experiment 14: Demoing Your Project

Congratulations! This is the final full week of classes and, therefore, the final week of lab. You should have your project completed and the report ready to turn in. You will meet with the rest of your class and watch their presentations and provide feedback on their performance. We hope you have enjoyed your semester as much as we have!

On the final Tuesday of the semester, the students in the honors section will be demoing their projects in the lab as well. Please stop by to see them. A schedule should be posted on the lab door.
