ENG 198 Technical Communication

“Achieving Excellence in your Presentations”

Dr. Jennifer Amos
Bioengineering Department

Dr. Marie-Christine Brunet
College of Engineering
This class would not exist without our trip to Penn State U
This class will train you in being a star communicator.
Some perceptions that middle and high school students have about engineering need to be reshaped.
Our messages should be guided by the findings of the National Academy of Engineering

Engineering makes a world of difference

Engineering encourages creativity

Engineering is essential to our health, happiness, and safety
This class will discuss strategies for how to be successful in three critical areas of your presentations:

- Content
- Visual Aids
- Delivery
This class will train you to be an excellent communicator

By the end of class, you will be able to...

- Critique presentations
- Design effective slides
- Identify content for audience
- Interact in teams
This class will train you to be an excellent communicator

Resources

Practice

Team Work

Mentoring

Indianaptac.com, worldswithwords.worldpress.com, mentorcloud.com, minions-despicable
Higher expectations leads to higher return

Your investment

Your return
The grading scheme takes into account three parts:

- 45% Attendance/Participation
- 30% Writing summaries
- 25% Presentations

Grading Scale

- A+ > 97%
- A > 90%
- B > 80%
- C > 70%
- D > 60%
- F < 60%

http://courses.engr.illinois.edu/eng198eb/
What can go wrong with poor communication?

https://www.youtube.com/embed/rg0fmaCSDPg
Did you know that one of the most sought after skills for employers is the ability to communicate verbally?

https://www.youtube.com/embed/rg0fmaCSDPg